LINCOLN, NEB. — In an offensive coaches' delight and a defensive coaches' nightmare, Nebraska and Iowa State lit up the scoreboard in record fashion, the top-ranked Cornhuskers winning No. 10 and their 20th in a row, 72-29.

The scoring orgy included the most points ever by Nebraska in Memorial Stadium and most against a Big Eight team: the two-team total of 101 points also was a stadium record. The game that produced 1,170 total yards included Husker Mike Rozier's 212 yards on 26 carries and four touchdowns. That gave him a career touchdown total of 47 and 282 points, breaking Johnny Rodgers' records of 45 and 270.

It was Rozier's second straight and fifth 200-plus game and ninth in a row over 100 yards. Quarterback Turner Gill had his career high passing afternoon with 13 completions for 241 yards and three touchdowns. He also gained 52 yards rushing and scored once.

Irving Fryar caught five passes for 114 yards and a 20-yard touchdown.

On the debit side, Iowa State rang up the most points (29) and yards (503) of any Husker opponent while David Archer and his fleet corps of receivers worked over the Nebraska underneath coverage for eight school passing records. Archer completed 26 of 26 passes for 346 yards and one touchdown.

While the Blackshirts leaked some, they produced two fumble recoveries and blocked a field goal in the first three series while the offense was having troubles of its own. That helped stake the high rollers to a 14-0 lead.

After being held short on fourth down on its first possession and punting on its second, the Husker offense scored on 11 of its next 13 possessions, including all six in the second half to run away with it.

Coach Osborne's Evaluation

'We're leading in the conference in net punting, which is an important figure.'

Tom Osborne.

Tom Osborne admitted to some "concern" about his defense after the Blackshirts gave up season highs of 29 points and 503 yards to Iowa State. Part of the problem stemmed from the team's physical state, particularly at the injury-depleted tackle positions, and part from mismatches discovered by the Cyclone passing game.

"Where we go from here, I don't know. We'll have to try to go back to the drawing board a little bit, but I really can't predict what we'll do. A lot of it's going to depend somewhat on the health of our players, who's available to play and who can do what.

"Right now, I'm very concerned because we're going to play a team (Kansas) this week that is very much like Iowa State. They're a very fine throwing football team, they use a lot of the same concepts, one running back and lots of receivers running all over the field. We'll just have to try to figure out how to slow them down.

"Seurer (KU quarterback Frank) is as good a pure passer, if not better, than Archer (Iowa State's David), so we'll have our work cut out for us.

"Defensively, we had our problems (against the Cyclones), but you've got to give Iowa State quite a bit of credit. They executed well, they've got some good receivers and a really outstanding quarterback. They protected him pretty well.

"It appeared that when we tried to play man-to-man short and then two deep to prevent the big play, we had some trouble matching up with them. The linebackers and ends had a hard time covering people coming out of the backfield.

"We probably would have been all right if we had been able to get a little more of a pass rush, but he was getting time to throw, and eventually somebody would come open. So we didn't do a very good job of slowing them down.

"We're really beat up on defense, which is part of the problem. Keeler (defensive tackle Mike) tried to play early, and he couldn't push off with his ankle. Skow (defensive tackle Jim) was limited because of his ankle problem. Stuckey (defensive tackle Rob) was hit in the head and was out in the third quarter. And for a period of about a quarter Doug Herrmann (defensive tackle) didn't play. He got hit in the leg, and finally he had to go back in and play. So we're pretty thin," Osborne said.

Mark Daum was unable to continue because of a knee injury, and fellow linebacker Mike Knox "is pretty beat up," he said, "so defensively, it's taken a toll on us. That's part of the problem.

"Iowa State played very aggressively on defense. It sounds strange when you score 72 points and have well over 600 yards of offense, but they had a lot of intensity. They hit hard. They blitzed some and had eight men up near the line of scrimmage early and gave us some problems, but as the game wore on, we seemed to gain control of it.

"Maybe our offensive line overall didn't grade as well as it normally does, but part of it was that they (Cyclones) were in a 6-1 front, which we don't see very much, and maybe technique-wise we weren't as good as we normally are.

"Turner (Gill) had a very good day. He threw the ball generally very well and made some big plays. Rozier, of course, had a good day and Fryar did well even though he missed most of the fourth quarter with his shoulder.

"The kicking game was good. That was a plus for us. We blocked a field goal. We made the one field goal we attempted. Our kickoff coverage was good. Our punt coverage was good. They tried one onside kick, and we got that. So we got some good field position out of our kicking game.

"That's been a factor that's been a little bit overlooked. We're leading in the conference in net punting, which is an important figure.

"The thing that has happened the last four weeks that has been very positive is that we've only lost one turnover offensively. If you think about it, in those games where the opponent has gotten to moving the ball and scored some points, if our offense started making some mistakes, we'd be in trouble.

"But fortunately our offense has been able to eliminate mistakes and score on probably three out of four or four out of five possessions. That's kept us out of serious trouble. But naturally, we'd feel a lot more comfortable if we were stopping people better because then your offense could afford to possibly have a quarter or a period of the game when things didn't go right and you could still recover to win.

"Right now, it doesn't look very good from that standpoint," he said.

The Huskers were aware at the half that Missouri had beaten Oklahoma, leaving Nebraska as the only unbeaten team in the Big Eight. "I think I told them at the half that if we beat Iowa State and beat Kansas that we'd be in pretty good shape for the Orange Bowl, but I don't know that that's a big factor. At that point, it didn't make much difference," Osborne said.

Injury Report

"Not too bad, really," Trainer Jerry Weber said, although two players were hospitalized.

Linebacker Mark Daum underwent arthroscopic surgery on a knee that had been bothering him for several weeks. "Mark's definitely out for the Kansas game. We won't know for a while about Oklahoma," Weber said.

Defensive tackle Rob Stuckey was admitted for observation with a mild concussion. "That's standard procedure. It looks like he's all right," Weber said.

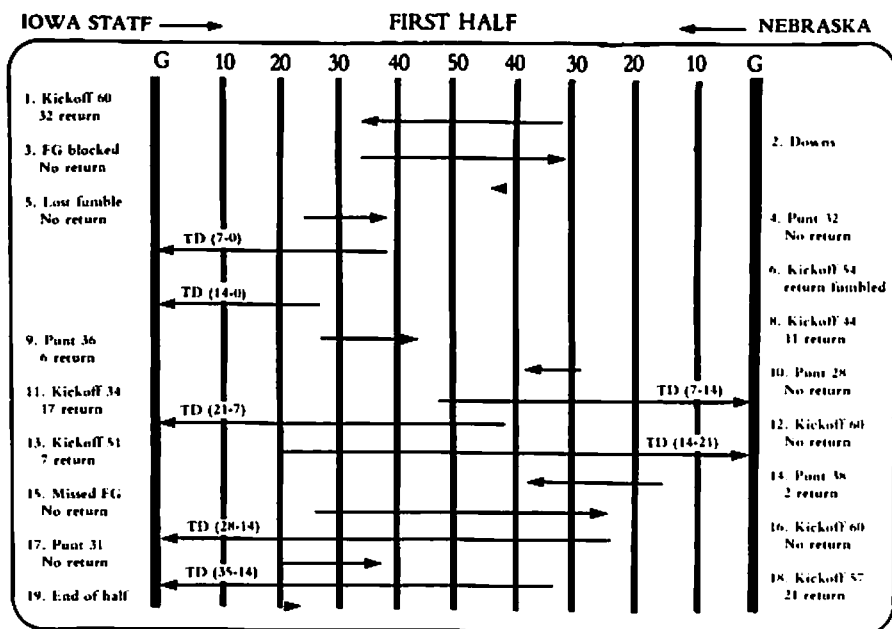

Cornerback Neil Harris will likely miss some practice time with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Defensive tackles Mike Keeler and Jim Skow suffered ankle injuries against Iowa State. "We were concerned about them, but they didn't show up for treatment (Sunday morning), so they must be all right," Weber said.

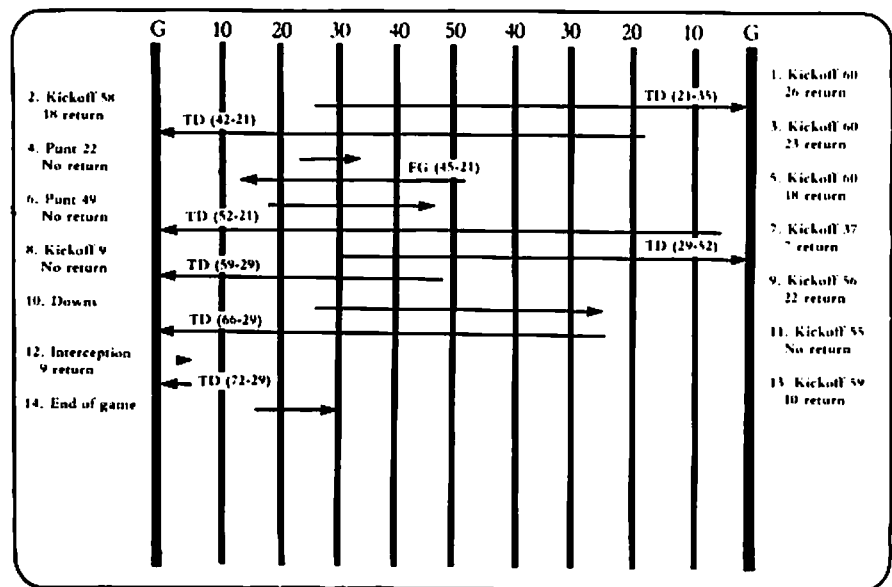

Offensive tackle John Sherlock played for the first time in five weeks after recovering from a knee injury, "and he held up real fine. We think he's back for the duration," Weber said.

Husker ranks for Kansas should also be bolstered by the return of middle guard Kenny Shead, who had arthroscopic surgery on a knee earlier.

Field Position Chart

SECOND HALF

This field position chart shows how each offense moved the ball on each possession. The numbers and information down the side columns indicate how each possession ended (punt, fumble, interception, kickoff, etc.). If a team loses the ball after a kick (a return-for-a touchdown or a fumble), no possession will be indicated for the other team.

Mike Rozier (30) goes to the air to try and clear a traffic jam in the middle of the line. Mark Schellen (25) blocks out front for Rozier, who had another Heisman-type day with 212 yards rushing and four touchdowns.

Lockerroom Chatter

Brad Smith, defensive end — Sophomore from Franklin, Neb., made his earliest appearance and logged his most playing time. He was in on the first series, alternating every four plays with Scott Strasburger. "It's a lot different getting in early. It's more fun and more challenging. It makes you feel like the coaches have some confidence in you.

"You learn a lot playing against guys who are bigger and better. I felt I had a pretty good day, but I made mistakes."

Dave Burke, cornerback — He blocked an early field goal attempt and nearly got to an errant attempt later. "Both of them were set up on the right hash mark. I'm always the guy who goes for the block. I was on the right end of the line. It cuts down the angle when they're kicking into you.

"Lots of times I've come close, but close only counts in horse shoes and hand grenades. I got a finger on the one that missed, but not enough to deflect it.

"That was the most points scored against us, but we played hard. The effort was pretty good all afternoon. We lost some confidence last week (against Kansas State), but we stayed together and didn't get down on each other. That was one of those 'We'll take it' games."

Todd Frain, tight end — His lone reception was for a 27-yard touchdown. He has caught five passes this season, three for touchdowns. "I'm three for five. I guess they (opponents) don't have any respect for the tight end yet. No, I'm kidding. They just have more respect for Irving (Fryar) and Mike (Rozier). They take a lot of pressure off you.

"I thought when I came here out of high school (Treyner, Iowa) that I'd be nervous just watching games, but it's not that bad. I don't notice the crowds. It's fun being No. 1 and beating everybody by those big scores, scoring touchdowns. It's just fun being related to such a good team."

Ken Graeber, middle guard — Because of injuries that have thinned the tackle ranks, he played more at tackle than his normal position. "It's a little hard trying to remember both positions. I'm not really under weight for a tackle, but my (lack of) height hurts some. It's harder for me to get a pass rush at tackle. It's easier at nose because the centers are usually short and squatty.

"Iowa State was an awfully good pass blocking team. Their center (Omahan Chuck Meyers) was excellent on pass blocking. If you'd get past one guy, there was always another one."

Mike Rozier, I-back — He gained 212 yards and scored four touchdowns for the third time this season. He broke Johnny Rodgers career TD and point records. "I'm proud to break his records because Johnny's like a legend around here. We had to score every time we had the ball because they were keeping up with us. Coach Osborne tells us we should score every time we touch the ball."

Jim Criner, Iowa State Coach — "I really don't think there's anyone in this conference who can beat Nebraska. I don't know if there's anyone in America who can beat them. I've seen Texas on film, and I think Nebraska is a better team."

Scott Strasburger, defensive end — He recovered his fourth fumble in three games. "I don't know what it is. I just run around and see the balls falling in front of me. All I have to do is fall on them. (Referring to Oklahoma's loss to Missouri, leaving NU as the only unbeaten Big Eight team). "Overall, Oklahoma's loss doesn't affect us. It takes a little pressure off, but our goal is to go undefeated, not just win the Big Eight."

The Way We See It

'Nebraska 67, Kansas 17' — Huskers Illustrated.

Paul Mowry
McCook Gazette

"They'll be playing at home against Kansas, but forgive the Huskers if their minds are on Norman, Oklahoma, scene of the November 26th battle for the Big Eight title. Nebraska hasn't had real trouble with Kansas since a 10-9 victory in 1973.

"Jayhawk quarterback Frank Seurer should give the Husker secondary another tough workout, but he'll need a perfect afternoon and good field position to keep the score close.

"If the Huskers haven't put the game away by halftime, they should have the 'Hawks set up for the kill. Make it 49-14."

Chuck Woodling

Lawrence, Journal-World

"Maybe (Nebraska Coach Tom) Osborne will be nice and start his fifth team. I haven't seen a defensive team as crippled as Kansas'. We've lost three starters on the defensive line. One starting cornerback quit recently, a starting linebacker has an Achilles' tendon tear and our starting safety has a shoulder injury and the doctor said 'you'd better not play him next week or you might lose him for the rest of the season.'

"The Jayhawks are hurting on defense so bad, (Head Coach Mike) Gottfried is just plugging holes to finish out the season. I've been here a long time and I haven't seen things this bad ever. He (Gottfried) just doesn't have anybody left.

"Every Monday, Osborne goes before a luncheon group and talks about next week's opponent, and I can already head what he's going to say. He'll say something like, 'Kansas' passing attack really scares me to death.' If I were in the audience, I'd ask him, 'But what about their defense?'

"There really isn't anything good you can say about Kansas' defense — they're just chopped liver. The writers in Nebraska are really going to have trouble finding something to write about this week.

"We should get a pool going down here to see how many points Nebraska will score. The 30-95 limit has really evened things out, hasn't it?

"I really feel sorry for the Jayhawks, and I know Nebraska doesn't want to run up the score, but there may be nothing they can do about it.

"Nebraska's averaging over 50 points a game; they shouldn't have any trouble reaching that. 56-0 is a minimum, although Kansas might score."

Gary DiSilvestro

Nebraska City News-Press

"Kansas' fanatical defense will be no match for the Cornhusker offense. I think that the real preparation between the teams comes in the second half because of Nebraska's superior conditioning.

"I think that the Blackshirts will force several turnovers in the game. Nebraska 62, Kansas 10."

Jerry Kane

Alliance, Times-Herald

"I don't really think it matters what Kansas is going to throw at Nebraska because it is their last game before Oklahoma. I think if Nebraska is deserving of the number one ranking, they'll have to play a full game. They won't let Kansas do what they want against them like Kansas State did. Nebraska 49, Kansas 10."

Mal Elliott

Wichita Eagle-Beacon

"Not many teams feels they have much of a chance against the mighty Nebraska Cornhuskers, but early in the season, Kansas University fans felt their team always had a chance with the golden arm of quarterback Frank Seurer.

"Seurer is still throwing well, but his receiving corps is so crippled the Jayhawks are going to have trouble finishing the season respectfully.

"With Nebraska sweeping through the national polls virtually unchallenged, it appears nothing will slow the Huskers and their great offense. They should be able to name the score against a KU defense that couldn't even stop Iowa State in the second half.

"Seurer should be able to throw for at least one touchdown. Nebraska 48-7."

Pete Goering

Topeka Capital-Journal

"If the Huskers are thinking about Kansas instead of its trip to Norman in two weeks, they shouldn't have any trouble handling the Jayhawks, whose defense has made even bad games look good this year.

"KU does, however, have a veteran offense that is capable of striking quickly through the air. Fans will get to see two of the Big Eight's top quarterbacks (Frank Seurer and Turner Gill) and two of the premier receivers (Irving Fryar and Bobby Johnson).

"They also should see a lot of offense and a lot of points, not to mention one last look at Mike Rozier, whose Memorial Stadium finale should be a dandy against a weak KU defense. Rozier should get at least three touchdowns, and the Huskers will win, 56-20."

The Huskers say...

Huskers Illustrated

"Look for a replay of the Iowa State Game. Kansas, like the Cyclones, has a superior flinger in Frank Seurer. The Jayhawks have lost three in a row, the latest to Colorado, which Nebraska dumped, 69-19.

"It appears that the only KU hope is a hot Seurer hand, and it's unlikely that he could sizzle any more than Iowa State's David Archer, who passed for 346 yards. And his team lost by 43 points.

"Nebraska will do some defensive juggling to hold things down. Don't look for another 500-yard yield by the Blackshirts.

"Meanwhile, this will be the final home showcase for Gill, Rozier, Fryar, et al. Think there will be any holding back?

"Mike Rozier has already overhauled such Husker legends as Bobby Reynolds, Johnny Rodgers and Jeff Kinney in various offensive records. Mike doesn't profess to have many personal goals, but one has slipped out lately. He sure wouldn't mind owning the single-game yardage record, now held by Rick Berns at 255 in 1978.

"Rozier has surpassed 200 yards six times. His closest challenge to the Berns mark was 251 against Oklahoma State last year. An afternoon of 255-plus would be a dandy going-away present for the Heisman Trophy favorite.

"Get out the calculators again: Nebraska 67, Kansas 17."
